

CUNO DEFIES FRANCE TO DO WORST

No Overtures From Germany as Long as Ruhr Is Occupied

Chancellor Breathes Defiance in Speech to Reichstag—Says 7 Weeks of Occupation Have Won Invaders Nothing.

(By The Associated Press)
BERLIN, March 7.—Chancellor Cuno's declaration that Germany will hold out in the Ruhr and his intimation that no overtures will be made "so long as the occupation renders it impossible to estimate our own capacity" rang through the Reichstag today as the people appraised their spokesman. Asserting that France had obtained nothing in all the weeks of the occupation Herr Cuno scoffed at talk of negotiating as long as the situation remains as it is. "We will agree to no settlement, however illegal, occupying territory from Germany," he said, "nor any agreement which fails to restore to freedom Germans wrongfully punished. The world is silent, the victims are still too few. I do not appeal even now to foreign countries. I merely note that after seven weeks of fighting for our rights and for the peace of the world we still stand alone."

Start Patching Up West Main St. Holes

City Engineer Linville has started work "plugging the holes" on West Main street which through the winter has shown unmistakable signs of rapid decay and deterioration. Not long ago a carload of asphalt was purchased by the city and this is now being used in filling up the bad places in the street which begin close to Mount Vernon church and which continue at uneven intervals as far as Ballou park. The holes are said to be due to the fact that the asphalt surface was laid on a thin layer of rubble and not on a durable concrete base such as concrete, with the result that where small holes have appeared in the top surface, water has seeped through to the red mud below, causing soft, has yielded to pressure causing the holes to appear. The whole street will be repaired in this way it being considered out of the question to spend the $70,000 or $80,000 which would be needed to repave the street at this time.

Bodies of Slain Officers Found

Moonshiners, Confess to the Killing and Lead Police to Spot Where Bodies Are Found Buried in Mud and Covered With Dead Cow.

(By The Associated Press)
FRANKLIN, La., March 7.—The bodies of Wesley Crain and Wiley Pierce, deputy sheriffs, slain Saturday by moonshiners, were discovered today buried in mud in which they had been covered. They lay a quarter of a mile from a destroyed still in the swamps about a mile from here. The slayers, John Murphy and John Gideon Rester, moonshiners, have confessed and led the officers to the burial spot, it was announced by Judge Clark.

The confessions told the sheriff how the deputies came to their home, radded their still and placed the bodies in the mud. They then covered them with a dead cow. They lay a quarter of a mile from a destroyed still in the swamps about a mile from here. The slayers, John Murphy and John Gideon Rester, moonshiners, have confessed and led the officers to the burial spot, it was announced by Judge Clark.

Painful Delusion Comes Rather Late

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, March 7.—"The fact on the bar room floor," the pathetic recitation that thrilled the hearts of another generation was written as an admonition to rough and ready bar-tenders to go easy with the ragged stranger and not as a threat against rum.

The author, Hugh Antline D'Arcy, supplied this information yesterday at a party celebrating his 80th birthday. He nearly choked when it was pointed out that the recitation had been used by the prohibition crusaders for years and was popularly believed to have been written as an argument against rum.

"I hope it never helped prohibition," he enquired. If I thought it had, I would jump into the Hudson. The original title was "The face upon the floor," he said, and the "bar room part of it" had been inserted without authority.

Budget Is Gone Into Thoroughly By the Council

While last night's informal council meeting for the purpose of discussing the budget for the next fiscal year was executive a few facts were gleaned from the discussions which followed supper served at the Burton hotel at 8:30. The meeting adjourned at 11 o'clock after having gone exhaustively into the city's needs and the next step will be study of the various suggested expenditures by the finance committee between now and the April meeting of the council when the budget will be formally presented for action.

While all of the committees aimed perhaps a little high in their desire to see improvements wrought the requests for appropriation were not extravagant although the aggregate probably will be about 30 per cent. above the anticipated income which necessarily means paring in certain quarters.

When the council got down to business, each committee chairman read out item by item the expenditures desired and these were discussed at length and in many instances the sums sought were tentatively reduced. The new almshouse and the sewer system, extension together with anticipated street improvements were the outstanding projects on which the council appeared to be agreed as to materialization next fiscal year. A good sum is suggested for street improvement and about half a dozen pieces of improvement work are asked for. The names of the streets are not being revealed. It is fairly certain that the total amount asked for streets will not be included. One of the developments during the coming council year will be that of the new city by the textile corporation at Ballou park and it is believed that by summer several new driveways will have been added.

Several city officers attended last night's supper.

One of the most interesting matters brought to the attention of the council last night were two development schemes drawn up by Harry C. Ricklen who is now about to develop in no uncertain way that valuable street which connects the junction of Mount Vernon avenue with West Main street, also Astor street, which was plotted out some months ago. The Public Works Committee presented a comprehensive scheme under which the city would be placed upon a further chance to expand. It was the first time Mr. Ricklen's project has been broached to the council and it is understood that an entirely favorable view was taken towards it. The Astor street development would entail an expenditure of $5,075.25 of which the city would be called on to pay one-third and the remainder by bond.

One of the most important of the council's business was the adoption of the joint resolution setting Friday as the last day for the introduction of bills of a general character was indicated when the measure was returned to the House of Delegates of the Virginia General Assembly today after passage by the Senate yesterday.

Delegate E. H. Gibson, of Culpeper, author of the original resolution, opened the discussion in the House with a criticism of Senator Oliver, of Fairfax, who conducted a one-man filibuster in the upper branch of the legislature and who was greeted today as he entered the Senate chamber with loud applause.

Mr. Gibson ridiculed the action of the Senate yesterday and declared that the House would not be deterred by the filibuster of the senator from Fairfax whose shortsightedness of stature is compensated by his length of wind. Let us hope that no man will ever again challenge the senator's achievement," the Culpeper member said.

He also attacked Senator Goodrich, of Fredericksburg, and others who fought the resolution and charged the Senate had attempted to discredit the House by its opposition to the two limitation resolutions.

"But," he added, "the House needs no defense in comparison with the Senate after that ridiculous affair of yesterday."

In the Senate Senator Leedy introduced a resolution which would give the consent of both branches of the legislature.

RICHMOND, Va., March 7.—After a long session of debate over the joint resolution setting Friday as the last day for the introduction of bills of a general character was indicated when the measure was returned to the House of Delegates of the Virginia General Assembly today after passage by the Senate yesterday.

Is Convinced Ugly Efforts Made to Shield Somebody

Regrets Camp Lewis Detachment Comes Too Late For Action by Late Congress.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, after careful consideration of all the evidence presented to him in the Cronkhite case, has become convinced that Maj. Alexander P. Cronkhite was murdered at Camp Lewis, Washington, in 1918.

Moreover, the Senator let it be known that if the War Department had not held up a decision regarding a court of enquiry until the eve of the adjournment of Congress, a resolution would have been offered in the Senate directing the Military Affairs Committee to make that inquiry. It was too late, after the War Department had decided upon a course, for the Senate to act.

SENATOR CARTER GLASS.

Glass Issues Statement.

All this is set forth in a statement made by Senator Glass this afternoon. Also a statement from Col. Jennings C. Wise, counsel for General Cronkhite, was issued in which he announced that the fight for "justice" in the case of both Cronkhite and his son, just begun, and that if justice were not done a resolution for a sweeping investigation would be presented at the beginning of the next session.

Senator Glass in a statement dictated tonight said:

"I think the War Department made a great mistake in not complying with General Cronkhite's request for a court of inquiry to investigate the circumstances surrounding the death of Cronkhite, and that if justice were not done a resolution for a sweeping investigation would be presented at the beginning of the next session."

"I was so convinced of this that I had the opportunity afforded I would have offered and urged a resolution directing the Senate Military Affairs Committee to institute such an inquiry."

"I was not apprised of the decision of the War Department against a court of inquiry until a few days before Congress adjourned, when nothing could be done except by unanimous consent, and was told that unanimous consent could not be had for consideration of the resolution which I had prepared to offer."

"Moreover, I am fully convinced by the evidence which was presented to me that General Cronkhite's son, Major Cronkhite, was murdered, and that for some reason that does not appear clear an extraordinary effort is being made to prevent a proper court of inquiry into the facts of the case."

Colonel Wise's Statement.

It was practically impossible for Senator Glass to obtain the unanimous consent requisite to the introduction of the resolution desired. He did all that anyone could do, and handled the matter with such dignity as to place him above the charge of partisanship.

Senator Glass and those who have cooperated with him have become convinced that Major Cronkhite was murdered and that General Cronkhite was retired by reason of his insistence on the case be properly investigated.

"The War Department was afforded every opportunity to act. In less than two weeks General Cronkhite's friends and thousands of others who demand fair play have been kept waiting. The fight has just begun, the resolution for a searching inquiry not only into the way the case of Major Cronkhite has been handled but into the circumstances of his death."

Does Work Give Phone Girl Heart Trouble?

LODI, Cal., March 6.—The State industrial accident commission is holding a hearing here to determine whether a telephone operator can develop heart disease by reaching to a switchboard several hundred times a day.

Mrs. Elsi L. Lykens, former operator in the local offices of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, has asserted she developed heart trouble as the result of continuing "plugging" of calls and has filed an application for compensation.

Attorneys for the company have classed the case as unusual and important, inasmuch as it may establish a precedent.

They say it is the first case of its kind among 13,000 girls employed by the company.

ORPHAN BOY WHO SHOT HIS BENEFACTRESS IS AT LARGE

Despite an energetic search made by officers of Rockingham county, N. C., for Hilton Seares, 17-year-old youth who shot and probably fatally wounded Mrs. B. Ernest Purcell, 12 miles from Reidsville yesterday, he was still at large this morning.

The youthful desperado had been living about one month at the Purcell home. Only last Saturday Mr. Purcell told County Welfare Superintendent J. H. Allen that young Seares had been a model boy and that he was delighted to have him in his home. For a time Seares was an inmate of the Thomasville Orphanage. Last year he was sent to the orphan farm near Kingston, N. C. He became dissatisfied at that place and ran away. A little later he was caught at Raleigh and turned over to the State Welfare Department.

About December 1 Superintendent Allen was asked to take the boy in charge. Mr. Purcell asked Mr. Allen to let him have the boy.

Seares seemed to have been delighted with his new home and soon gained the full confidence of the Purcell family. He knew that Mr. Purcell kept money in the safe at his home and the temptation to rob it proved too great for him to resist when he learned yesterday that Mr. Purcell had gone to Danville.

Seeing Mrs. Purcell seriously wounded, the boy dropped his pistol, mounted a horse belonging to Mr. Purcell and left. A short distance down the road about an hour after the shooting the horse was found wandering in the woods. The first bullet entered her right arm and penetrated her breast. Two other bullets entered the woman's back just left of the spine.

Her children in Sharon school, one 10 miles away, were notified and one of her sons went to Reidsville for a physician. As soon as the physician, Miss Vannie Treadler, daughter of the late Alex. Treadler, of Rockingham, arrived at the Purcell home and made an examination he saw that her condition was critical, with little chance for her recovery. He did what he could for her and then hurried her off to a hospital in Greensboro.

The Purcell family are prominent and well known people in Rockingham County. Until recently Mr. Purcell operated a business in Reidsville.

RURAL LIFE CONFERENCE TO BE HELD AT WHITMELL IN MAY

Further evidence of Danville's spirit of co-operation in promoting the interests of the county was seen at a meeting of the executive committee of the Chamber of Commerce which met yesterday evening to hear Mrs. F. C. Beverley, principal of the Whitmell high school who appeared in behalf of the proposed Country Life Conference to be held there for three days in May.

Mrs. Beverley, who was accorded a full hearing on her program told of the proposed conference which will be attended, in all probability by Gov. E. Lee Trinkle and leading educators of this and other states and persons interested in school work throughout this section. The Danville Chamber of Commerce was asked to share in the expenses of the conference and the executive committee unanimously approved the plan and agreed to bear part of the financial responsibility and to have a representative in Richmond in the near future where the conference plans will be whittled into definite shape. This is not the first time a rural life conference has been held at Whitmell. Last year one was held and it was highly successful. Whitmell's high school is regarded throughout the state as one of the finest rural schools anywhere in Virginia and an example of the great strides which are being made in the matter of rural education. Mrs. Beverley is largely responsible for the building up of the school and is looked on as an authority on rural school problems which she has met and overcome at Whitmell.

Court Issues Writ To Free Mrs. Buzz In Bronx Murder

Prosecutor to Oppose Release or Reduction of Bail—Her Statements Do not Check.

NEW YORK, March 6.—A writ of habeas corpus, calling for the production in the Appellate Division Friday morning of Mrs. Anna Buzz, held in the Bronx county jail as a material witness in the investigation of the murder, Feb. 26, of Frederick Schneider, Bronx contractor, was obtained from Justice Dowling late yesterday by James F. Donnelly, Mrs. Buzz's attorney.

Mr. Donnelly will argue Friday that Mrs. Buzz is not a material or necessary witness to the murder, and that, therefore, she should be released from custody. Bronx District Attorney Glennon, will oppose her release, or even the reduction of bail.

The statement of Mrs. Buzz that Schneider was in her Grand Concourse apartment at 5 p. m. the day of the murder is at variance with "definite information" District Attorney Glennon says he has received from several persons whose names he did not disclose.

Three of these informants, he added, are employees of the Schneider concern, who say they saw Schneider drive past the entrance of his place of business at the hour Mrs. Buzz said he was in her apartment. Others not named according to Mr. Glennon, said they saw the contractor driving toward his office a few minutes before 5 p. m. These disclosures were made by Mr. Glennon with this:

There have been no new developments in the investigation today. (It was then late in the afternoon.) would not say there is even one suspect.

Later he supplemented his time check-up by saying that a "policeman and an employee" told him that they saw Schneider in his car at Third Avenue and 162nd street driving in a quarter opposite to that of his home at 4:45 p. m. on the day of the murder.

Mr. Glennon was visited yesterday by Capt. William A. Jones, chief of the district attorney's staff, who wanted to get his ideas of how the pistol with which Schneider was killed was held. Schneider was found dead in his car, one hand on the steering wheel, the other in his pocket. Two bullets had entered his head, one through the right ear, the other from the back of the skull. Capt. Jones said the former was a "contact wound," showing powder burns.

Mrs. Gladys Holzman, who was employed by Schneider, was questioned by Assistant District Attorney Connors, but the result was not made public. It is believed she was asked about Schneider's business affairs. Mr. Glennon said he has learned Schneider recently had been offered $150,000 for his business, checks and other papers. Mr. Schneider had been asked for by the District Attorney.

John Kadel, Schneider's attorney, told Mr. Glennon his client left no will, but had no business or financial difficulties. The $5,000 judgment against him which has been referred to in the inquiry, was covered by a bond. Mr. Kadel said.

Judge R. S. Kerr Will Hold Court Here On Monday

Judge Richard S. Kerr, of Staunton, who on several occasions held court here after the resignation of Judge E. Walton Brown, has been designated by Governor Trinkle to preside over the criminal term of the Corporation Court which will begin next Monday. The recent bereavement in Judge Withers' family resulted in court being delayed a week and the securing of another jurist to preside here. Jesse W. Benton, assistant commonwealth's attorney, stated this morning that arrangements have been made for Judge Kerr's coming and he will be here on Monday to go into the court docket.

Clerk of the Court Otis Bradley was asked by Judge Withers this morning to open court this morning to comply with the law which prohibits cases of longer than three days once the date of the regular session has come round. This was done, the formally taking less than a minutes. Court now stands adjourned until Saturday when Judge Withers will be able to come down and adjourn the session again until Monday. Jurors, witnesses and defendants under bond will not be required to appear in court until next Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

Wins 100 to 1 Shot In Deathbed Thrill Though Pony Loses

CHICAGO, March 6.—Perhaps it was best that "Lucky" Archambault died before the results of the third race at New Orleans had been announced. The aged gambler died believing he had won $10,000. Archambault came here during the World's Fair as agent for a French silk firm. He began "playing the ponies" and lost fortune and position. Of recent years, he has been a charity patient at Holy Cross Mission. Last week Pierre Trouville of Quebec called upon him and repaid $100 he had borrowed when Archambault was flush. Archambault rushed to the nearest bookmaker and put the $100 on Marimba a 100 to 1 shot. When he came back he developed pneumonia. Just before he died he was in bed, his fevered eyes glistening, and he said: "I can see the crowds in the stands, the sunlight, the dust and the dashing horses—and Marimba wins—and I win $10,000." Then he sank back dead. Marimba ran a poor fifth.

HAND OF BEN POWELL SEEN IN FAILURE TO CONFIRM SOUTH

BY GEORGE H. MANNING
(Washington Correspondent of The Danville Bee.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 7.—In addition to taking no action on the appointment of Charles F. Gauthier for postmaster at Bristol, Va., the Senate adjourned Sunday at noon without confirming the nomination of Charles D. Smith, Jr., for postmaster at Martinsville.

This nomination came to the Senate from the White House only on Friday, March 2nd, two days before adjournment. Senator Swanson succeeded in securing confirmation of Smith, Jr., by explaining to the Senate Postoffice Committee, that charges against Smith were on the way to Washington and he wanted the committee to investigate them before approving Smith's appointment. Senator Swanson told the committee that he had been advised that parties in Martinsville had been offering to pay Smith, Jr., if given opportunity, and the committee had laid the Smith nomination aside to permit of an investigation.

It has been expected that the haste of the Republicans in getting Thomas H. Self, the Democratic postmaster at Martinsville, to make way for either Dr. Charles D. Smith or his son Charles D. Jr., would end up in a rumormongering. Dr. Smith, who is a Republican, ticket last November against Congressman Murri Hooker, and was defeated by more than 2 to 1. His numerous visits to Washington last fall and closed conference with Congressman Stimp led to the impression that he wanted to get the postmastership for either himself or his son. Subsequently, about two months ago, Postoffice inspectors were directed to make an inspection of Postmaster Self's conduct of the office. It ended up with the usual result, the inspectors recommending that Mr. Self, who had over a year more of his 4-year term to serve, be dismissed.

It was suggested to Mr. Self that he might put in his resignation and then apply for the postmastership. But Mr. Self, who had a good record of service back of him, ignored the suggestion. Furthermore, he came to Washington and called on the department to show wherein his services had been in any way satisfactory.

In due course of time, Charles D. Smith, Jr., son of D. Smith, was nominated for postmaster—but he was not confirmed. It is rumored that R. B. Powell of Martinsville, who was Republican leader and dispenser of patronage in the Fifth district before he was succeeded by Dr. Smith, is either inspiring or directly making the charges against Smith. Powell and Smith are now bitter political enemies.

It will be recalled that Powell furnished the evidence with which Congressman Harrison sought to besmear the character of Congressman Smith when the latter was in election contest case was before the House.

If Powell comes out openly against Smith, some interesting testimony may be presented because friends of Powell assert he was "well loaded" for Smith with evidence of collection of campaign contributions from Republicans in the Fifth district who received appointments. It was stated at the Postoffice Department today that later in the week it will be decided whether to appoint Smith and Gauthier as Acting Postmaster at once or to delay a while to await developments of the charges made against each.

New Tells How He'll Run Job As Postoffice Head

German Marks Are Not Worth Keeping

(By The Associated Press.) HAMBURG, March 7.—Germans have slowly learned that it is unwise to save marks while they are falling so rapidly in value. Even servants earning very small wages have adopted the plan of converting their money immediately into something which has real value. Such persons seldom have enough to buy foreign money, so they acquire articles which will always be in demand. Furthermore, they usually have these purchases made in some small town, where prices are lower than in the great centers which know more about international exchange operations.

The look in one American family in Hamburg recently told her mistress she was investing her earnings in furniture, which she had ordered a cabinet-maker in her native village to manufacture. She had bought the wood at a bargain and the man was doing the work very cheaply in his spare time. While the cook was not betrothed, and did not know that she would marry, she explained to her mistress that her chances will be much brighter when it is known that she could furnish a home attractively.

Will Make No Promises; Would Be Judged by Performances Only—Is Silent About Patronage.

BY HARRY HUNT.
(Special to The Bee.)
WASHINGTON, March 7.—Postmaster General Work, made the basis for the public's judgment of the administration of the postoffice department under its new chief, Harry S. New.

"I am not making a promise," New said as he squared away for his new job as boss of 330,000 postal employees and head of the biggest business organization in the world.

"I have no plans for any campaigns, reorganizations or stunts. I am going into a job, of which I have only a theoretical knowledge, with only one idea—to administer the affairs of the postoffice department in a business-like way to the best of my ability."

"If I make a success of it, the public will find it out. If I fail, the public will find it out. So far as I know, I am taking over the department at a time when it is functioning in good shape."

"How about the recommendation of Postmaster General Work, made in retiring that postmasters and other appointees be taken from civil service and political patronage and their selection handled directly by the department on a business basis?" I asked.

"Not a word—not a word!" New answered, apparently sensing a lead to the subject of patronage generally. In political circles it has been currently stated that New's appointment was a direct move by the President to put into the office a man who would use it to strengthen the administration's political organization for the battle of 1924. But on all approaches to that subject the new postmaster general had but one answer.

"Not a word!"

Good Morning Judge!

The session of the mayor's court this morning was a brief one, only a few minor cases being disposed of. The only two cases appearing on the docket were for drunkenness, although a few other continued cases were heard but were of a trivial nature.

Fred Williams, colored, charged with taking a suit of clothes from Jake Jones, was ordered to go free after agreeing to return the clothes to the rightful owner, who claimed that Williams took the suit to be pressed and failed to return it.

The case of Bill Bailey, charged with creating a disturbance was continued. W. W. Adams has appeared before the mayor for being drunk so many times that a heavier fine was imposed this morning. Adams, a frequent visitor to the court, drew a fine of $25 and costs and warned that if he continued to get drunk he would be sent to Staunton or a jail sentence imposed.

Charge That Congressmen Forgot Dry Law To Be Thoroughly Probed

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Charges that the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead law were forgotten during "foreign parties" in some of the committee rooms of the House and Senate office buildings and the capital following the adjournment of Congress yesterday will be thoroughly investigated. Edgar N. Reed, divisional prohibition chief for the District, said today.

Mr. Reed declared that he intends to make every effort to apprehend the bootleggers who are alleged to be playing their trade about Capitol Hill, but at the same time stated that it was going to be one of the hardest jobs the prohibition authorities ever have tackled to "catch these law-breakers in an effective way."

He added that it was going to be a task that would require considerable time, but that in the end he felt sure the prohibition agents would be successful.

James L. Asher, formerly of Baltimore, the general prohibition agent whose activities after his transfer here from Louisville, Ky., resulted some weeks ago in a number of record-breaking raids in Washington, is reliably reported to have spent considerable time recently in efforts to ferret out the bootleggers who are alleged to be working about the capital.

Sleet Storm In North Virginia

Thompson and McKinnon stock brokers reported this morning that their wires were down as result of a severe sleet storm in the vicinity of Washington it being said that it was unlikely that their wires would be working until late this afternoon.

The Southern Railway's wires were operating this morning and no reports of trouble had reached local divisional headquarters. At the Western Union Telegraph office it was reported that facilities were curtailed owing to a sleet and hail storm which had struck Northern Virginia. The company had wires into Washington, although these were congested.

Lawyers is three stations this side of Lynchburg. Two hours were consumed in getting the derailed truck back to the track, the accident happened at a switch and the mail train was held up for a short interval while the work was done on. There was no material property damage.

Crew Rescued From Ice Floes As Ship Sinks Off Newfoundland

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., March 6.—Adrift on ice floes and facing death, the crew of the three-masted British schooner A. B. Barisoux, from Perth Amboy, N. J., was rescued by the Norwegian steamer Hauk off the Newfoundland coast yesterday, after their vessel had foundered, a radio message received here today said. The story of the rescue was relayed by the steamer Silvia, due here tonight from Halifax, which said she spoke to the Norwegian steamer today and learned of the loss of the schooner in the heavy ice and the perilous plight of the sailors on the drifting floes.

The message from the Silvia said several of the rescued were suffering from severe frost bite.

The crew of the Newfoundland schooner James O'Neill, salt laden Oporto, was rescued off Cape Race yesterday by the steamer Behrman, which arrived here today from Boston and Halifax, after the schooner was crushed by ice floes. Members of the crew said the vessel sank twenty minutes after they took to the lifeboats.

Mussolini Calls Himself Daredevil

ROME, March 6.—Whatever else may be said of Dr. Benito Mussolini, Fascist premier, it can never be said that he is a daredevil. He is a man of cold, hard facts with a cold, hard head.

"I do not believe in perpetual and universal peace," Mussolini told the Chamber, and the Italian, who had wanted to conquer but they dared not.

"In the life of all nations," said Mussolini, however, public that "I am a daredevil." He does not say so, but he is a daredevil. He does not say so, but he is a daredevil. He does not say so, but he is a daredevil.

Love Diary Robs Wife of Spouse

TRUTH VS. FICTION

IN the accompanying extracts from the diary of Mrs. Leona Quinn you read the experiences in the love-life of a woman, fighting between two loves, as she tells them in her own words, thinking they would never be read by any other human eye.

On the editorial page, The Bee, you will find an installment of "The Tangle," a unique serial story, a tale of love told entirely by the letters written by principals in the story.

Read, the accompanying diary.

It will turn to "The Tangle." Don't truth and fiction often run parallel!

BY GENE COHN

(Special to The Bee)

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—"Don't trust your pen," That's the advice of Miss Leona Quinn.

For she has learned that a pen can be used more cruelly than the hating tongues of gossip or friends.

She had but one confidante—her diary. And this has boded up to her as the central figure of a "love triangle."

Through its impassioned pages, which were bared by the divorce action of her husband, there runs the following scenario:

A girl quite madly in love, doubts that her love is returned. She meets another man and marries him upon impulse.

She discovers, when the bonds of matrimony are forged, that her first love was far more potent than she had dreamed and that it is growing stronger and stronger.

Confesses to Diary.

So she sets out to tell Love No. 1, whenever possible, meanwhile confessing her transgressions to the diary. Her first love spurns her and then, suddenly, she finds motherhood near.

One day the diary is found by her husband and now, from present indications, she has lost both husband and lover.

Thus runs the plot. Extracts taken from the diary tell in Mrs. Quinn's own words:

"Jan 3—Chris came this a. m. God knows I didn't want to let him go because there is no telling how long it will be before I see him again.

"Jan 26—What a hell of a world it seems. Does Chris love me? Could he learn to? Can't I have the love of the man I adore?

"March 8—Jimmy is awfully nice. I want to cheer up with him and for a ride. Jimmy wants to marry me. Here's a kiss for Chris.

"March 21—I have promised to

LOAN TO ROAD WAS TABLED BY GOVERNMENT

BY DICK SMITH

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Mar. 6.—W. T. Kemper, secretary of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railroad announced today that the bill providing for a government loan to the road of $3,000,000 had been tabled in the closing hours of Congress. He expects a favorable decision in the federal courts on freight diversions from other roads to tide the road over until other means of raising money are devised. A cessation of operation by the road would leave hundreds of miles of highly productive territory in Texas without railroad communication.

FORT WORTH, Mar. 6.—Rangers are turning green today all over the southwest except in the Clovis and Tucuman districts of New Mexico where feeding still is necessary. Renewed trading in young cattle is reported from Amarillo and El Paso. The convention of the Texas and Southwestern cattle raisers association at El Paso is expected to set a record in this respect.

marry Jimmy. He is going to give me the ring. We will go to Los Angeles for our honeymoon.

May 11—Well, dear diary, I have returned to you. I need you to console me. Diary, I fear I have made a grave mistake. I married Jimmy Quinn on May 1. We get along splendid, but down in my heart I know I don't love him. I guess I always will. I think of Chris all day long. I fear, that one of these days I will get desperate and Lord knows what will happen.

"June 8—If I could only stop the heart storm within me. Oh, Chris, if you only knew how I love you. I don't love him, Chris. I tried to, but can't. I'm living in a hell on earth. Please love me, Chris. I have de-nounced me.

"July 24—Well, diary, things have turned out in such a way that I believe it my duty to stick to my husband. I love Chris as I can never love another. But Chris has de-nounced me.

"Aug 15—Chris, Chris, I try to put you from my thoughts. He is coming to S. P. soon. Oh what misery I am in. Just as I make up my mind strong to go home I find that I am to be a mother. What shall I do? What shall I do?"

If Government Of U. S. Fails Then All Will Be Lost

RALEIGH, N. C., March 6.—"If the government of the United States fails, then civilization is lost and man's star of destiny will need to rise no more. The hope of America is the hope of the world."

This is one of the striking statements of Alvin Owsley, national commander of the American Legion, who spoke in Raleigh tonight. With prominent officials of the Legion in this state, the national commander tomorrow will visit Wilson and Wilmington. He is scheduled to make addresses in both cities and then to leave for South Carolina to fill other engagements.

Commander Owsley expressed himself as strongly opposed to immigration and asserted he believed it should be halted for five years in order that Americans might educate aliens now here in the true spirit of patriotism.

"Before America can give to all peoples the examples and sustaining strength necessary for their good, she must make sure of her own existence. We, of the Legion, will always keep fresh in our memory that the service men are our first consideration.

"Our country needs us and our loyalty more now than ever before.

"The true American still regards himself as the founder of a family rather than the descendant of any family, however honored.

"The carrying out of the spirit and letter of the statutes that provide for the compulsory education of the children of America, the American Legion is irreconcilably committed.

"Community of language is the strongest fastener of the ties that bind mankind. I declare by the Goddess of Liberty we do not turn to Greek or Latin or French for the Declaration of the United States of America.

"One flag above our schools and one language in our schools, the flag and the language of America, of Americans, one and indivisible.

"I do not want to put the foreign press of business. I want to put it in business—in the language of America.

"We, of the Legion, like to think of ourselves not as ex-service men and women, but as service men and women still.

"Our problems are as much more grave than our fathers' as our civilization is more complex and intricate. There is no issue in Democracy as such; nothing in Americanism as such, that will save us if we are a nation of weaklings and fools.

"The races that have made America great with their virtue and strength were born of hard times. Our race is not easily kept down.

"The Americanism consists in feeding hungry men, clothing naked bodies, helping little men to work, redeeming men in their own self-respect.

"The purpose of all government is the happiness of the people who live under that government.

"The mere performance of electing a representative to office does not suffice. A truly thorough, to use a peaceful word, reform, must be had.

"Get the big rich fellows who offend against the law and the little ones who are caught up in the net of legal justice.

"The American Legion is committed to no class no party, no private interest.

"During the early days of the war, many aliens claimed exemption from military service because of their foreign birth—now they claim their right to serve foreign ideas upon Americans because they are still here. If I mistake not, we have need of more 'Soviet Arks' to sail the seas, carrying back to Europe a very disturbing of American Peace and Industry."

MRS. SALUDES' CASE GOES TO JURY TODAY

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Mar. 6.—Emotionless and with half closed eyes, Mrs. Paul Saludes, French woman on trial for the murder of Oscar Martelliere, broker, heard the final arguments of defense and prosecution attorneys today.

Martelliere was pictured as a "cold-blooded viper" by the defense in seeking to justify the shooting. His affection for the defendant, had cooled after he had obtained her property, her house and her car. The defense alluded to Mrs. Saludes as half crazed from her wrongs and pointed out her frequent attempts to commit suicide in an effort to show she was irrational immediately before and after the murder was shot and killed in his own office.

Assistant District Attorney Brotherton referred to Mrs. Saludes as a "jealous woman" and declared "love turned to hate" was the motive for the killing. He snarled the defense plea of temporary insanity. "If this defendant was a man," the prosecutor said, "I could sit down confident you would convict. But the real defense in this case is 'I am a woman'."

The case is expected to be given to the jury tomorrow.

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 6.—Central and northern California lumber mills today are rushing production of boxing shooks in preparation for the fruit and canning season and are rushing on extra crews of workers. Heavy orders are coming in from Alaska fisheries and from California and Hawaiian packers.

BOSTON, Mar. 6.—The Thomas G. Plant shoe company is operating a plant close to capacity of 17,000 pairs of shoes a day. Chairman Briggs of the company's board said today that during the coming months a decided increase in consumption of shoes was to be expected.

Tut Getting In His Work on Fashions

Egyptian fashions, which have been sharing popularity with those from Persia and Urukia, will take the lead now.

King Tutankhamun, deserves all the credit. What matter that he's been dead some thousands of years? He's to be a powerful influence. All the same, in the dictation of spring and summer styles.

This influence will be visible mostly in colors and designs of popular printed fabrics—chiffons, silks, silk crepes, cottons, linens, even wool jerseys.

And the gayer designs, the more popular the goods.

REDISTRICTING BILL PASSED BY HOUSE

RICHMOND, Va., Mar. 6.—After a filibuster today by Senator Oliver, of Fairfax, against the resolution limiting the introduction of bills on and after Wednesday, the rule was amended so that when a majority in either house desires to introduce a bill it can be done, along with such measures as the Governor may suggest. Oliver spoke for more than five hours, holding the floor and covering many subjects. He finally gave consent to accept the amendment indicated, and the resolution now goes back to the House.

The House passed the redistricting bill by nearly unanimous vote just as it came from the Senate.

In the discussion of the resolution in the Senate, prior to the tactics of Senator Oliver, Senator Coolidge made a red-hot retort to the strictures and criticisms of House members regarding the alleged delay of the bill. He said that the bill was ready for consideration. He said that the bond people did not propose to suggest any half-baked legislation and that the measure on which they were at work required much detail. The date for introducing bills was then moved up to Friday by agreement. Then it was that Senator Oliver began his filibuster on his own account and against the idea of the legislature surrendering to the legislature and binding itself hand and foot.

Sensor Coolidge was sharp in his criticism of speakers on the floor of the House of delegates, saying it was the one place where there was juggling with legislation and moving back and forth. He said that unless he were given time to consult his associates there "will be no vote on the measure this session."

Sensor Coolidge said the members of the legislature had been here a week and yet the House had voted to bind itself hand and foot and delivered themselves to the Governor Senator Beverly said they had better bind themselves and surrender to the Governor than pass a bond bill which will bind them for thirty years.

The resolution that caused so much trouble will go back to the House for concurrence and will precipitate another fight. Its purpose has been virtually accomplished by the agreement to get in the bond bill.

Lost—13,500,000 Tons of Raw Materials

More than one third of all raw materials required to manufacture portland cement vanishes in the manufacturing process. This is exclusive of the vast fuel consumption, which averages about 200 pounds of coal, or its equivalent, to the barrel.

Last year cement plants in the United States produced 113,870,000 barrels of cement. This output required the quarrying or mining and transportation, drying, grinding and burning of 35,000,000 tons of raw materials. Of this huge total, 13,500,000 tons which started on their journey through the mills never reached the cement sack.

Many conservation methods and devices are in use in the industry. Yet the inevitable losses, due to transformation of materials under the intense heat in the kilns, total well over a third of all raw materials that go into the plant.

A cement plant covers acres of ground. It includes large buildings full of crushing, grinding, elevating and conveying machinery and huge storage bins for raw materials and finished cement.

But it is in the burning zone of the great rotary kilns—a space 30 to 40 feet long by 7 to 9 feet in diameter—that the greater portion of these millions of tons is lost.

Cement manufacturers have long been carrying on scientific studies to reduce the cost of waste.

This is one of a series of advertisements to acquaint the public with the manufacture of cement.

Our free booklet, "Fifty Years of Portland Cement in America," explains the process. Write for your copy.

THE DANVILLE REGISTER

LONDON PARIS BERLIN CONSTANTINOPLE

SOCIAL graces are absolutely essential to social success. Gentility must be both graceful and gracious. Nowhere is gentility out to a more severe test than in the ballroom. It's true that dancers are born, not made, yet with patient practice and intelligent instruction, any able-bodied person can become an acceptable dancer, and should.

AT THE DANCE

1: A man asks the first dance of the woman he has escorted, and makes sure that she does not lack partners for later dances.

2: The woman does not seek her partner for any dance number; he comes to her.

3: Any couple who dance together so much as to make themselves conspicuous court criticism.

4: No man should ask a woman to dance with him unless he is sufficiently proficient so that the dance will be a pleasure to her.

5: Men who accept invitations to a dance are duty-bound to participate in the dancing, instead of loitering in the smoking room.

IT'S HAD MANNERS for a man to leave a woman standing alone on the floor; either he escorts her to a seat or waits with her until her next partner claims her.

DIDN'T KNOW HIS BROTHER

"My brother got so bad with stomach and liver trouble that when I saw him after a year I didn't know him. He was emaciated and yellow as a pumpkin and was often in great pain. He couldn't have lived long the way he was going. Doctors and medicine gave him no relief. I picked up a little booklet on May's Wonderful Remedy, which he said described his case perfectly. The first dose of it gave him great relief and in a month he was good as ever." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. W. C. T. U. Is Now Engaged In Social Welfare Work

(By The Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, March 7.—In a survey of its philanthropic work just made, the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union is devoting more than one hundred pieces of property in the United States to the comfort of women and children in an effort to aid in community welfare, according to a survey of its philanthropic work just completed.

The survey shows that fourteen states maintain homes for girls. Some of these are schools while several are voluntary rescue homes. There are community buildings in a number of states and about fifty Americanization centers over the country, the best known of these being the one in Bridgeport, Conn.

At San Diego, Cal., the W. C. T. U. maintains a home center for soldiers, sailors and marines. There is a Francis E. Willard home for girls in Los Angeles and at Highland Park, a home for women and children. Oakland, Cal., also has a home for girls. Michigan with its two homes for girls is a close second to California while Iowa, New Mexico, Alabama, Indiana and Illinois also lead in this type of welfare work.

Four states have old ladies' homes and seven states maintain summer rest cottages. Many of the state and local union headquarters also serve their communities as Americanization, child welfare or social centers.

"Some of this property has been left to the W. C. T. U. through legacies but the larger part has been acquired by purchase made possible through gifts," said Miss Anna A. Gordon, world and national president of the organization.

It has been our object to use our funds in establishing permanent useful memorials for daily helpfulness to our neighbors that we might carry out the wish expressed in the words of our great leader Francis E. Willard when she said: "It is not enough that women should be the home makers, but they must make the world itself a larger home."

Wed 73 Years; Refuse To Hug Before Camera

SPRING LAKE, March 6.—Mr. and Mrs. John C. Demarest, of Spring Lake, N. J., celebrated last Saturday the seventy-third anniversary of their wedding. He is ninety-five and she is ninety-one.

Demarest was asked to place his arm around his wife's pose for a photographer. He answered: "It's too much trouble to hug her. Hugging is all foolishness, anyway."

Mrs. Demarest told a reporter: "We were married March 2, 1855. I put on a lot of style that day and felt all puffed up. I used to have two dresses a year, both home made. I had one pair of shoes a year, of cowhide, tanned at home."

Negro Held On Incendiary Charge

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Archibald W. Shaw, a negro laborer employed at the government printing office, was held by police today in connection with the fire at the printing office Monday which destroyed government documents, valued at $15,000, and which was believed to be incendiary. Shaw is said to have denied firing the building but admitted a grievance against officials and workers there. He related as his principal grievance that when he attempted to enter the cafeteria the music was stopped.

Coal Situation Nearly Normal

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 7.—In spite of the long strike of coal miners in 1925 and transportation difficulties which were encountered after its conclusion the national situation as to coal supply is good according to a summary of reports from mining districts. Almost without exception, the coal association declares the big producing districts are turning out enough fuel to meet current demands, the shortages not being serious.

WANT TO EXTEND LIBRARY SERVICE

(By The Associated Press.)

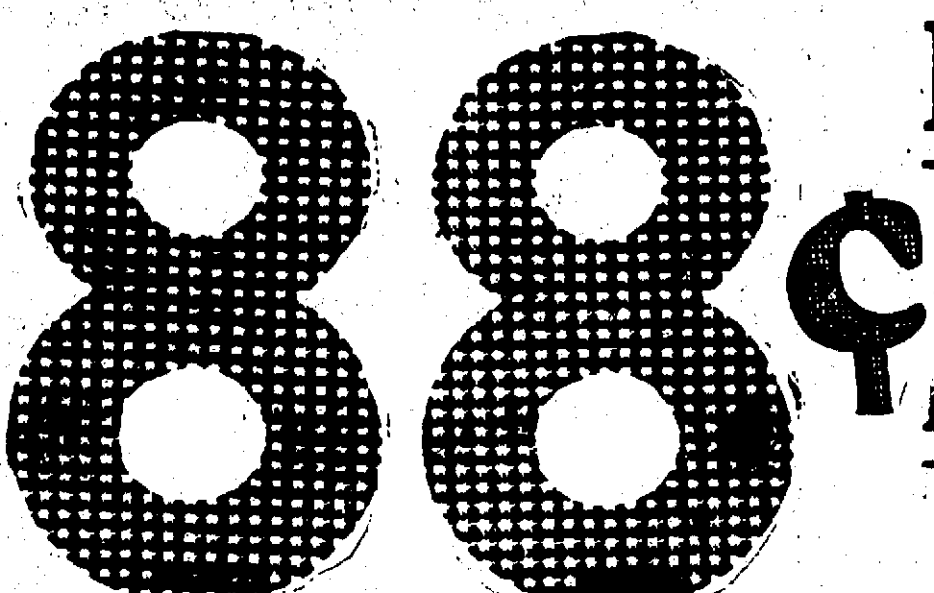

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 7.—Methods of extending library service to the many millions of persons in this country who are now without it, will be one of the principal subjects to come before the annual meeting of the American Library association here next month, April 23 to 28.

Club women, school superintendents, secretaries of Chambers of Commerce, representatives of civic clubs, all prominent in their lines of work, have been called to discuss this new work of extension. Chief among these is Alvin H. Owsley, commander of the American Legion. The legion is reported as especially interested in the work as the ex-service men remember the camp libraries maintained by the association during the war and in numerous instances have reported their regret that similar service is not available in the home communities.

ATTENTION IS TURNED TO FOREIGN-BORN

BY MORRIS QUINN
INDIANAPOLIS, March 6.—How the American Legion soon will embark on a sweeping Americanization program that will do away forever with segregated foreign settlements in American cities is detailed for the first time here by Colonel Alvin Oweley, national commander of the legion.

The World War veterans' program, Oweley said, will aim—
TO RESTRICT immigration for at least five years by Congressional enactment.
TO LIMIT immigration there after "to such aliens as we can assimilate."

TO REFORM conditions at Ellis Island to the end that treatment of incoming aliens will be such as to render them antagonistic to America.

TO LAUNCH a nation-wide campaign of education in which every American will be asked to join in Americanizing unassimilated aliens.

Four platform planks.
"Our present program is fourfold," the national commander said. "We are working for hospitalization of veterans, their rehabilitation, a bonus and Americanization."

Before long the first three planks automatically will be carried out. We then shall turn our undivided attention to Americanization.

"First of all we shall strive to wipe out every 'little Italy,' 'little Poland,' 'little Greece' and every other kind of segregated foreign settlement."

"This we shall carry out through education of aliens. Already the American Legion in all parts of the country voluntarily are acting as teachers of English and civil government."

"We shall establish free night schools for those who work by day and day schools for those who work by night. We shall call upon Americans living in districts adjoining those where foreigners live to bring America to the aliens."

To Boost Playgrounds.
"We shall use our influence for the establishment of community playgrounds and civic centers where the foreign-born will be asked to come and to bring their children."

"Further, we shall ask the federal government to set aside funds to be used in teaching prospective citizens the elements of citizenship."

"Already we have initiated a legislative program in every state which forbids instruction in any foreign tongue before a pupil has passed from the eighth grade and which makes a course in civil government, state and national, compulsory in elementary schools."

"While this process of assimilation is going on, we shall ask the government to bar from immigration for at least five years."

Ask Restriction.
"Then we should like to see the government work out a system of limitation on immigration which would admit only those foreigners whom we easily can make into Americans."

Oweley declared definitely that as "assimilable immigrants" he meant those from the north of Europe and added as an afterthought, "and such of those from southern and middle Europe as are willing to assimilate themselves to American institutions."

SHAGGY COAT OF FAMILY DOG SAVES YOUTHS

ATLANTA, Ga. March 6.—Stories of the blizzards in the northwest, when the air is so filled with snow that one is almost blinded and people may be lost near their own doorsteps, have been long associated with the frontier days of this land of romance. But the following incident of the late storm that swept the country, sent by a resident of Montana to relatives in Atlanta, has the added interest of the devotion of a faithful dog to his young masters.

On the afternoon of the day of the blizzard, two boys, about fifteen years of age, left their homes at Sweet Grass, Montana, to hunt rabbits, taking with them a large Shepherd dog. When they were a long distance south of the city, the blizzard stricken them.

The boys soon were lost. The temperature was twenty degrees below zero. After wandering about for several hours in the blinding snow, the boys, led by the dog, discovered a small cave in the side of a hill. This afforded a slight shelter. They huddled together, with the dog at their feet.

Being natives, the boys knew a search would be made for them. Occasionally, one of them would step out into the snow and fire his gun a couple of times. Then he would cuddle up again with his companion and the dog.

When the boys failed to return at night and the blizzard continued it was known that they were lost. A searching party of twenty men set out. They wandered for hours, before the flash of a gun led them to the cave.

Except from weariness and a few minor bruises, the boys were little the worse for their experience. The dog had saved their feet from freezing, and the boys declared his heavy coat and the warmth of his body probably had saved them from death.

LONG LIFE IS ATTRIBUTED TO SALT FISH DIET

OSWEGO, N. Y., March 6.—If you wish to live to be a hundred make your daily diet salt fish and pancakes, made from a mixture of corn meal, wheat flour with a dash of buckwheat, washed down with hot black tea without trimmings. That is, free from sugar, milk or cream.

That's the diet prescribed by Captain George Best, the hermit of Windy Cove, who has just celebrated his 94th birthday and who says that he is a living demonstration of the efficacy of this diet.

In his little shack of two rooms, located in a patch of upland covered with scrub oak and chestnut, looking out over acres of marsh land, Captain George has lived for the last 35 years. In the summer season he has plenty of company—fishermen, campers and those who go to the Cove for an outing, but with the close of the duck-hunting season in the Fall and the departure of the fishermen, the marsh land, Captain George lives alone, surrounded by curl, his cocker spaniel, and fourteen black cats.

"I hope to live to be a hundred," said Captain George, "and I love my diet. It's a great one and I believe it has no superior. Duck trimmings, salt fish and pancakes, that's my diet for a day or so."

"You don't mean to tell me that your steady diet is salt fish and pancakes?" the reporter asked.

"Surest thing you know," said Captain George, leading the way into the dining room, "where the fish and ducks were kept, and there was the winter store, a barrel of salt fish."

"In the Fall, when the water fowl come in for a feed of wild rice and corn, my diet is varied a little by roast duck and apple sauce, or a piece of roast goose, but in the winter the ration is salted sucker and pancakes."

"I don't eat high blood pressure, nor hardening of arteries, and I believe my health is due to my diet. In every respect I'm normal. I haven't an ache or a pain and my health is perfect. What man of 94 can say more?"

PRES. HARDING TAKES VOYAGE ON HOUSEBOAT

(By The Associated Press)
ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Mar. 6.—After inaugurating his Florida vacation trip with an 18 hole of golf over the Ormond Beach Course, President Harding with Mrs. Harding left here late today on the McLean Houseboat for New Smyrna, about 20 miles down the Indian River.

The plans of the chief executive and Mrs. Harding, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. McLean, of Washington, during the houseboat vacation, would bring them at dark off New Smyrna, where it is expected another game of golf will be had tomorrow morning.

A presidential party arrived at Ormond Beach a few minutes after noon after having received enthusiastic welcomes at Jacksonville and St. Augustine.

At Jacksonville a delegation representing Governor Hardee and the city extended an official greeting and Mr. and Mrs. McLean, who are on a vacation, were also present.

Harding has spent several vacations at Ormond Beach, and he expects to spend a part of the present one, several hundred old friends were at the station.

The presidential party left the party at St. Augustine and Charles G. Daves, former director of the budget, joined it.

The greeting extended the president and his wife. Ormond was less formal but equally as enthusiastic as those at Jacksonville and St. Augustine. The little town was decorated with flags for the occasion.

When Mrs. Harding stepped from the train, apparently having experienced no ill effects from the 24 hour trip, the gathering broke into cheers. Mrs. Harding immediately entered a waiting automobile, but the president walked ahead to shake hands with the townspeople and to acknowledge greetings. While talking with the engineer and conductor beside the locomotive the automobile carrying Mrs. Harding drove up and she grasped the hand of the engineer and thanked him and the other members of the train crew for making the trip so comfortable for her.

The president and Mrs. Harding then boarded the McLean houseboat, a one hundred and fifty foot craft, called "The Pioneer." They were accompanied a road by former Budget Director Daves, Brigadier General Charles E. Sawyer, and Chairman Lasker of the Shipping Board.

Immediately after uncheon the president went to Ormond Beach golf course, where he will play with Dr. D. Rockwell, who plays over it daily. The president had Mr. McLean as his partner and Chairman and former Director Daves were paired against them.

Residents of Ormond Beach, the winter resort across the river from Ormond, greeted the president at the 18th hole with cheers and applause. The plainly dressed president, the executive as he missed two easy putts after having played a steady game throughout the round. Except for a rather stiff neck, he was in excellent condition. Indications developed during the day that the president during the trip would devote some time to the shipping problems created by the deficit of the administration shipping bill. Details of the solution are being worked out by the Shipping Board and will be sent to Chairman Lasker during the trip and be made the subject of conference between Mr. Lasker and the President.

CREW OF SHIP BROUGHT ASHORE
(By The Associated Press)
ST. JOHNS, N. F., Mar. 6.—The crew of the British schooner A. E. Bartheaux, rescued from an ice floe three days after their vessel was crushed by the pack, were brought here today, partly frozen and exhausted by the Norwegian steamer Hauk which picked them up ten days ago and had been fighting the floes since to get the shipwrecked men to shore. The fact of their rescue, however, was not known until the day of their rescue and their rescue by the Hauk preceded the men of the Bartheaux to port by radio, but the account fell short of telling the story of their experience.

Captain Henry James, with both legs frozen and in danger of amputation, said he and his six men quit their ship February 26, after she had become surrounded by ice. They had left New York February 5 with an thracite for this port. On the morning of the 26th the floes folded in on the little schooner, then a huge mass of ice cut through the vessel's bow.

Lucky Kids Have "Real" School

(Special to The Bee)

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 7.—Two schools of democracy exist here.

One is in the capitol, where Gifford Pinchot, Pennsylvania's new governor, works at a desk in an unguarded reception room with this sign beside the open door: "Governor's Office. Walk in. Hours, 10 to 12 Daily."

The other is a real school, where seven-year-old Gifford Pinchot, Jr., and young Steve Stahlnecker, son of the governor's secretary, are being educated democracy and other subjects from all walks of life in Harrisburg.

The school was Mrs. Pinchot's idea. She leased a 12-room house and turned it into a private school. There is no tuition; she pays all the expenses, including salaries of Miss Elizabeth Lavelle, Giffy's governess, who runs the school, and Harrison Trowbridge, Columbia graduate, who joined the Pinchot entourage last summer as a tutor.

Ten children were selected as schoolmates of Giffy from a list of 37 picked from public school lists. All are between the ages of six and nine, there are five boys and five girls, including children of two machinists, a lawyer, a detective, a plumber, a grocer, a shoemaker, a merchant, a druggist and a state employee.

"Children were selected by mental and other tests," said Miss Lavelle, "and on consideration of each child's individual characteristics and energy."

All three agreed that the non-union workers in the mine of the Southern Illinois Coal Company had been attacked early in the afternoon of June 21st and that they had surrendered the next morning after being promised safe conduct.

But after the unarmed prisoners had been marched about a mile from the pit, according to Lawrence, a new leader appeared whom he identified as Gus Clark, one of the defendants, and declared:

"Let's kill them all and stop the breed."

The march was continued, Lawrence and Jones testified, and some men

TWO MORE HERRIN SURVIVORS TESTIFY OF RIOTS LAST JUNE

(By The Associated Press)
MARION, Ills., March 6.—Two more survivors of the Herrin riots of last June, testifying for the prosecution at the second trial, today pointed out three of the six defendants as having taken an active part in the disorders which resulted in the slaying of three union miners and twenty-two non-union workers.

The witnesses, Otis Lawrence, of Louisville, Ky., a fireman and Bernard Jones, of Chicago, an armed guard, substantiated details of the story told on the witness stand yesterday by William Cairns, another survivor of the tragedy.

All three agreed that the non-union workers in the mine of the Southern Illinois Coal Company had been attacked early in the afternoon of June 21st and that they had surrendered the next morning after being promised safe conduct.

But after the unarmed prisoners had been marched about a mile from the pit, according to Lawrence, a new leader appeared whom he identified as Gus Clark, one of the defendants, and declared:

"Let's kill them all and stop the breed."

The march was continued, Lawrence and Jones testified, and some men drove up in an automobile whom they were unable to identify although they heard a shout:

"Here comes the president. Here comes Willis."

"Some one then suggested that we be killed there in the road, one by one," Lawrence asserted, "but the man they called the president declared:

"You can't shoot them on the public highway. Take them over to the woods and then shoot them or send them away in a body."

"Then they took us over to a strip of woods and lined us up before a barbed wire fence. Some one started to run and the firing started."

It was at this point that Antonio Matkovitch, a veteran of the world war was slain. The six men on trial, including Hugh Willis, state board member of the Illinois Mine Workers, are charged with his murder.

The two witnesses pointed out James Brown, a negro, Philip Poplanetta and Clark as men they had seen in the death march carrying guns. All of them are defendants in the present case.

On cross examination, Jones admitted he knew he was engaged in strike breaking and had shot at the men firing into the mine.

"You were engaged in trying to kill the people of Williamson County," he was asked, and replied:

"I was trying to kill the people who were trying to kill me."

"The Cat and the Canary," the most thrilling mystery play theatre-goers have enjoyed in many years, and now in its second season at the National Theatre, New York, is booked at the Majestic Theatre on Thursday, March 11th.

John Willard, author of many famous sketches, wrote "The Cat and the Canary" originally for a one-act play for the Lambs Gambol, but decided, after reading it to a few friends, that it had greater possibilities. He incorporated almost the whole sketch into a second act, wrote a first and a third act to round it out—and won fame and fortune.

Prices 33 cents to $2.50. Seat sale opens Monday.

CHLORINE GAS IS LATEST CURE FOR INFLUENZA

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., March 7.—"Pulling the fangs of influenza" has been the chief duty of Dr. Harrison Hale, head of the department of chemistry at the University of Arkansas, who has evolved the "flu preventative" that has received national attention, during the past two weeks.

During the influenza epidemic of 1918, Dr. Hale began experimenting with chlorine gas as the solution of flu germ control. He experimented with a group of forty young men and women, and so successful was his work that only one of the number suffered even a light attack. The results formed the basis for several special articles in scientific and medical journals of the country.

With the start of the present epidemic in this state, Dr. Hale again got out his chlorine apparatus and is now offering free preventive treatment to those who desire them. The treatments consist of breathing a rarified chlorine treated atmosphere in the chemistry building of the University.

From the start, many have taken the treatment, the groups including from 100 to 150 daily. Five minutes a day in the chlorine air makes up the treatment.

Although statistics are not yet available on the effectiveness of the treatment during the present epidemic, it is believed by university officials that many days of school work already have been saved by the method.

Dr. Hale is compiling data on the number taking treatment and it is probable that the figures thus obtained will be published and contributed to the scientific records of the disease.

ENGLAND MUST RESTORE TRADE SAYS BALDWIN

(By The Associated Press)
LONDON, Mar. 6.—The conviction that the time has come when English speaking people would be driven by the course of world events to join hands and save the world economically, and restore international trade, without which Great Britain, especially could not prosper or succeed, was expressed by Stanley Baldwin, chancellor of the exchequer, at the annual conference of the Women's Parliamentary Convention of the National Unionist Association.

Mr. Baldwin was of the opinion that it was not a dream to foresee in the future world peace guaranteed by these two same peoples and that they would maintain it as the only powers whose interests were world wide, whose financial strength was unpaired and whose ideals tended far more to peace and the elevation of mankind than to militarism and fighting.

The chancellor asserted that most of the problems today were economic and the greatest economic power of the world rested with the English speaking peoples.

DECISION MEANS 2ND DEFEAT FOR COMMISSION

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, March 6.—The Federal Trade Commission was permanently enjoined today by Justice Bailey in the District of Columbia Supreme Court from requiring the Maynard Coal Company of Ohio to submit monthly reports as to the cost of coal production. Counsel for the commission noted an appeal. Justice Bailey's decision was the formal order on a verbal decision adverse to the commission given some months ago and makes permanent the temporary injunction granted then.

Today's decision was the second defeat for the commission in its efforts to force coal producers to submit reports on basic matters. Three years ago the Claire Furnace Company of Pennsylvania obtained an injunction against the commission when it attempted to get a steel production of statistics was stopped and the funds appropriated for the work by Congress turned back into the Treasury.

In both the Claire and the Maynard cases Justice Bailey held that cost of production figures did not concern in anyway, interstate commerce and therefore Congress had no authority to compel companies to report them to the Trade Commission. The Claire Furnace case has been appealed to the United States Supreme Court, the court of appeals having sustained Justice Bailey.

PLANE TAKES NOSE DIVE INTO OCEAN

(By The Associated Press.)
JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 6.—Lieutenants Guy Kirksey and T. T. Selzer, manning plane number nine of the squadron of six army de-haviland planes which arrived at Pablo Beach near here late today, narrowly escaped injury when their machine took a nose dive into the ocean at Neptune Beach and stuck in the sand about ten feet from shore.

Neither flyer was hurt. The other planes of the squadron, which is on a 2,850 mile flight from Kelly Field Texas, to San Juan, Porto Rico landed at Pablo Beach without mishap shortly after 4:30 o'clock.

The planes left Montgomery, Ala., at 11:50 o'clock this morning. Tomorrow the planes are scheduled to hop off from Pablo Beach for Miami.

It was learned today. The invitation came from Robert A. Gardner of Chicago, who is captain. MAUDE ROYDEN MAY COME HERE TO MAKE TALK

Through the efforts of the Young Women's Christian Association there is a possibility of Miss Maude Royden of London coming to Danville. It is not by any means an assured thing that Miss Royden can arrange her schedule so that she might come to Danville but there is the hope that she may be able to do so. The general secretary of the Y. W. C. A., Mrs. E. J. Hinchliffe, is in correspondence with Miss Margaret Bailey Speer, secretary of the Young Women's Christian Association of the late Sir Thomas Royden, and daughter of Dr. Robert E. Speer, and if it can be arranged Miss Royden would like very much to talk to the Danville audience. She is coming in the interest of the Young Women's Christian Association nor will she touch in any way on the work of that organization. Miss Royden is the greatest woman preacher in the world. She is a daughter of the late Sir Thomas Royden, P. Lord Mayor of Liverpool, England. She has had a varied and interesting career as a member of the University Settlement in the slums of London. She is also the first woman to have been elected to the Oxford University Extension Staff of which university she is a graduate. She is the founder of the New Fellowship series in London.

Miss Royden is a brilliant writer as well as speaker of marked ability, and appeals to young as well as to more mature minds. As a speaker a well known English divine has said of Miss Royden, "She has the power of a clear, logical brain, a fine courage which carries all things for the truth, an irresistible humor that lightens all her speech and a fine contempt of empty convention. But her power is more than this—we are won primarily by her intense sincerity, by her devotion and reverence, combined with laughter and gaiety—above all, perhaps by her Gospel of Hope preached to an age of Despair and Disillusionment."

Another authority has said, "Miss Royden is a speaker of very unusual gifts. She has wit and humor, a rich vocabulary and a voice of great beauty." The Gentleman with a Duster in "Painted Windows" has said of Miss Royden "She is a true woman and a great man."

Miss Royden is in America on a lecture tour reaching from coast to coast, and in a few days will begin a course of talks throughout the South.

What's Going on in the World

WEEK'S CHIEF EVENTS BRIEFLY TOLD

BY CHARLES F. STEWART
(Special to The Bee)

EUROPE looks very much like getting back to the conditions which led up to the World War. Primarily the last great conflict was between Germany and England. It may not seem so after the fact, because so many other issues were tangled in. But every close student of the situation could see what was coming eight or ten years before it happened.

It was evident that Germany was determined to grow and that England was determined to prevent her from growing, because she could grow only at England's expense. Nobody foresaw that America would be drawn into the struggle, but plenty of people foresaw that France and Russia and Italy and the Balkan nations and, of course, Austria-Hungary would.

True, a great many who saw perfect what the tendency was did not believe there actually would be a war. They thought civilization had progressed too far for such a thing to be possible. But they were up to date, logically, in that direction.

THEIR INTERESTS CONFLICT
WELL, it's the same today, except that instead of being England and Germany, it's England

Crude Flints In Britain Hint Of Early Mankind

LONDON, March 6.—Five thousand centuries ago—perhaps ten thousand—an Englishman tripped blithely down from a mountain crag to a brooklet that ran along about where the center of the English Channel now lies. It was morning—undoubtedly a foggy morning—and he was hungry, so he reached a hairy paw down into the stream, clutched a fish, slew it with a devious stroke of his flint knife and breakfast has persisted in England ever since. So have the foggy mornings.

All of which may be taken as an explanation of why the English eat fish for breakfast or may be regarded as a left handed introduction to the statement that man dwelt in England as long as 500,000 or 100,000 years ago.

England's antiquity never has been questioned, but it remained for Reid Moir, an expert on prehistoric man, to establish that Britain probably was the oldest home of mankind. The verification has been given by an international commission of archaeologists, so the matter apparently has been settled.

Moir has discovered human implements in the neighborhood of Ipswich that seem to establish that old King "Toot," whose peaceful sleep of centuries in the Valley of the Kings, at Luxor, recently was disturbed by the ruthless spade of the excavator, was a mere infant by comparison. His findings have given rise to the interesting speculation that England may have been the very cradle of the human race.

The exact age of the race of men who dropped on English soil the crude flints that Moir has found is problematical, for archaeologists are chary about going into detail in the matter of dates. A few thousand years or a few hundred thousand mean very little in the lives of archaeologists. The lowest figures advanced by any authority, however, is about 500,000 years, while some are willing to hazard the prediction that these tools were the product of a race that lived a million years ago.

At the time when this ancient race inhabited fair Albion, England was an island, and the experts believe. The vast expanse that is now the English Channel and the North Sea was then a broad green, fertile plain. The western coast of Europe at that time it is estimated, ran out a hundred miles beyond Ireland.

No one can say that archaeologists are lacking in imagination, however, for these delvers into the prehistoric have reconstructed a picture of conditions then that is at least convincing in its reality. They declare that great herds of long-tusked elephants cavorted over the plain and were preyed upon by ravenous sabre-toothed tigers that dwelt in the forests. Monkeys chattering in the treetops, and hippopotami splashed and grunted in the streams.

Bones of these animals have been found in abundance in the area where Moir has conducted his investigations. No human remains have yet been found, but the implements that have been unearthed are alleged to record the earliest traces of mankind known to science.

Moir's discoveries were submitted to a learned commission which included four Belgians, two Frenchmen, two Englishmen and two Americans. This commission, which is the gravest tribunal for such matters in the world has pointed out that the maker of the flint tools may not have been an ancestor of modern man at all. They suggest that he may have been something that was halfway on the road to humanity, but who never got there. They agree, however, that he at least was semi-human, was intelligent and that he was undoubtedly tremendously old.

and France. Their interests conflict. Nothing could be worse. A quarrel can be patched up, but a conflict of interests can't.

The friction between England and France isn't very seriously upset, but if things go on as at present, it will get more and more so. Probably it will be ten or twenty years before the sparks begin to fly. But sooner or later they will.

Of course this is assuming that France goes ahead with her policy of today and that it works.

Nothing could be clearer than that she aims to expand, and nothing can be more certain that, if she succeeds in doing it, she will have England to reckon with.

Relationship Of Woman Arrested Has Been Denied

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 6.—Mrs. Margaret B. Buchanan, who was arrested yesterday and arraigned before United States Commissioner MacDonald on the charge of having obtained $1,500 from the Veterans Bureau by forging the signature to compensation checks is not a sister-in-law of former Lieutenant B. F. Buchanan, of Virginia, it was asserted by Mr. Buchanan.

Mrs. Buchanan who has worked about the Capitol for a number of years as secretary to various members of Congress has claimed for years that she came from Richmond and was the sister-in-law of Lieutenant Governor B. F. Buchanan. Upon reading in the newspapers today of Mrs. Buchanan's arrest and her claims of a relationship to him, Mr. Buchanan wired The Danville Register correspondent, denying that Mrs. Margaret B. Buchanan is his sister-in-law and stating that he does not know who she is. As soon as he learned of the arrest of his secretary, Mrs. Buchanan, he dismissed her from his employ. Representative Samuel A. Kendall, of Meigsdale, Pa., stated today "Mrs. Buchanan has been my secretary about two years," said Representative Kendall today. "She is a very efficient woman, one of the best secretaries in the Capitol I expect. I knew nothing at all about this Veterans Bureau matter in which Mrs. Buchanan is mixed up passing through my office. As soon as she was arrested of course I told her I could not have her in my office any longer." When arrested on the charge of forging checks to the amount of $1,500 and arraigned before United States Commissioner MacDonald, Mrs. Buchanan said she had signed the checks for Martha Buchanan, her colored cook, who was unable to read or write, but had turned the money over to her. She was released on $3,000 bail for a hearing on March 15th. Following discovery of the forgery investigators of the Veterans Bureau said today they summoned Mrs. Buchanan and questioned her. It was then she turned over to the colored woman $1,073.75, but she issued a check for this amount on a bank in Representative Kendall's district in Pennsylvania they assert and it was returned unpaid.

STEEL MAKERS LOOKING FOR HIGHER PRICES

PITTSBURGH, Mar. 6.—Makers of steel declared today they looked for higher prices in many lines during the second half of 1923. Speeding up the production is going on in practically all plants in this section with labor and car shortage the only drawbacks.

Building and loan associations in this section are forecasting their capital some of them 500 per cent, to care for building requirements. Home builders are depending largely on these companies to finance their operations. Wage increases in the building trades amounting to 15 to 20 per cent have gone into effect for over 10,000 workers in this section.

WAGE AGREEMENTS IN THE BUILDING TRADES

CLEVELAND, Mar. 6.—Many of the wage agreements in the building trades of this section have expired and negotiations on today indicate that the wage level in the boom year of 1920 may be established here this spring. This means that men of most trades will receive $1.25 an hour while some are asking as high as $1.37 1-2.

OPELIKA, Ala., March 6.—Roots were blown off, houses and telephone and telegraph wires were put out of commission by a severe windstorm which visited Opelika about four o'clock this afternoon.

England and France New Alignment Ahead? How Interests Clash

THE queerest feature of the whole thing, just at the moment, is that there is an underlying sense of better relations between France and Germany, despite the former's invasion of the latter's soil, and in spite also of the supposedly threatened German rising against the French, than exists today between England and France.

Just after the war, there were a lot of folk who had an idea no Anglo-Saxon ever would like a German again. But people who recalled how past enmities, seemingly just as bitter, had been forgotten with the lapse of time, were heard occasionally to remark that, after all, you couldn't tell—it wouldn't surprise them to see the English and German's fighting side by side a few years hence.

Nobody said, however, that it wouldn't be surprising to see the Germans and French fighting side by side.

For all that, the latter looks a good deal likelier than the former does—or that French and Englishmen will be seen fighting side by side again in a long time to come.

It may seem like a queer time to predict European continental combination, with France and Germany both in it, against Great Britain. It's logical, nevertheless. Besides being logical, it's indicated by the trend of events.

Aside from her own overseas dependencies, the friend to which England is working to bind herself to is the United States.

ARMED REVOLT IN GERMANY?

FRENCH propagandists have been circulating the story lately that the Germans are getting ready for an armed uprising in the Ruhr.

No doubt it's true there's a good deal of restlessness there, but the French have too obvious a reason to exaggerate for their accounts to be taken without a liberal quality of salt—they want an excuse for tightening their grip.

Most of the international political authorities are predicting some sort of a settlement of the Ruhr controversy before long, but it looks more every day as if the French meant to hang on for good. There may be so-called mediation, yes, France, however, as the plot works itself out, doesn't like the French policy a bit.

NEW ALIGNMENT GIMPSSED

THE queerest feature of the whole thing, just at the moment, is that there is an underlying sense of better relations between France and Germany, despite the former's invasion of the latter's soil, and in spite also of the supposedly threatened German rising against the French, than exists today between England and France.

THE TOBACCO MARKET AT BURLINGTON CLOSES

BURLINGTON, March 6.—The Burlington tobacco has closed for the season and the various buyers that were not residents of Burlington have returned to their respective homes for the spring and summer or gone to other markets. The season, as to the auction warehouses, was one of the best in the past few years according to a statement by one of the warehousemen this morning. The season closed with prices higher than the average. The two auction systems houses were conducted by Warren and Tanager, at the Leader, and Leath at the Morgan. These two warehouses enjoyed a prosperous season, operating under the auction system, and it is said that the operation of the co-operative warehouse did not affect the business of the two auction system houses. The co-operative warehouse, under the management of B. M. Walker and associates had a good year also, being the first year of the co-operative system of marketing tobacco. There seems to have been general satisfaction among the members of the co-operative association in Alamance.

—R. K. Mitchell, Jr., is slowly improving at his home in North Danville from an attack of influenza.

Stuart Commends Trinkle's Stand On Road Matter

RICHMOND, Va., March 6.—When he was asked his opinion of the Governor's message to the Legislature, former Governor Henry S. Stuart said: "Governor Trinkle's analysis of the entire road question, as presented in his admirable address delivered before the General Assembly, is quite the strongest, clearest, and most convincing of all the contributions I have seen to this much discussed subject. The Governor has stripped the issues involved of all political or sectional aspects and has provided, by his timely suggestions, a common ground on which all friends of a liberal and progressive road system for Virginia may find standing room. He assumes as well he may, that the sentiment for such a system is overwhelming and that the real difference between bond and anti-bond men is as to method of reaching a desired result and not as to the result itself. The situation thus clarified should be, and I believe will be, easily solvable by the application of the rules of common sense guided by that patriotic spirit of mutual accommodation which has been always characteristic of the Legislature of Virginia. We are fortunate in being able to approach this solution at a time when immediate sources of revenue are available, which were unknown to our fathers, who in their efforts to survive the men who created it and works for which it was used and is now, even at a low rate of interest, absorbing more than one-tenth of our State revenue."

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—The Impassive "Chinese" is in imminent danger of execution. He will disappear from the face of the earth directly automobiles are imported in large numbers into the Orient. S. J.
Pierson, American newspaperman returning from a tour of the East, declares here.

"It's all because of the devil a healthy specimen of which haunts all Chinese, driving them to deeds of heroism that would be commendable on the battle field," Pierson said.

The devil, although not visible, has a habit of attaching itself to the cover of the orthodox Chinaman.

Therefore, to rid oneself of this necessary evil, all one must do is to jump in front of a swiftly moving automobile, allowing the tender to brush Satan from the clothing.

"It's simple, and yet the faster the automobile goes the better they like it, and some times their feet slip," Pierson added.

To further clue these pests, the Chinese have a habit of walking on a zigzag course, for, he it known, the devil can only travel in a straight line, Pierson continued.

Tariff Commission Deadlocked Over the Various Rates

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Virtually deadlocked over the procedure to be adopted in administering the government features of the flexible tariff, the tariff commission has decided for the present to leave that phase of its work in abeyance and to investigate only those rate applications on which commissioners are more or less in agreement.

A series of investigations on twenty-or twenty-five or thirty commodities has been begun, and the applications involved being selected from more than a hundred which have been filed with the commission. Some members of the commission feel, however, it was asserted today that the agency should go ahead on its own initiative and investigate such rates as in a general way would determine whether discriminations are being worked by the law.

President Harding is aware of the split in the commission, and it was stated, was asked on his return from Florida, to determine the government of policy as to whether it was the intent of Congress, that under section 315 of the law, it intended for the commission to employ its own initiative or to investigate complaints only as represented by applications for changes. The issue in the commission was described by one member as so well defined that nothing short of a residential statement interpreting the law's provisions will permit "constructive action."

It was hinted in some quarters that one of two resignations may come within the next few days. The resignation of Mr. S. Culbertson, a Republican member and a supporter of the view that the law should be interpreted on the basis of a scientific appraisal of the actual conditions rather than be allowed to continue as Congress enacted it, was declared to have indicated an intention to quit unless some progress can be made. He was reported, however, as having informed his colleagues that he would "go along" with them until Mr. Harding has had an opportunity to examine the record in the case.

Chairman Marvin is said to be on the other side of the controversy, holding that it would be extra jurisdiction for the commission to investigate on its own initiative and make recommendations to the president for changes in the rates fixed by Congress.
Mr. Marvin also was declared to believe that the law, in effect now almost six months, should be thoroughly tryout and he is convinced that its defects will show in the forms of applications for changes in the rates. He has told his associates that he is entirely willing to have the attorney general give an interpretation of the law's provisions concerning the commission's power in order that the commission may know definitely where it stands. In the meantime the investigation of the limited number of commodities will go on and, it was said, a field survey may be instituted in a few weeks. Information as to what commodities were involved in the investigation order was withheld, although an official announcement may be made within a few days.

Mr. Marvin declared today that while undoubtedly some were dissatisfied with the law, he felt that it was doing the whole country a great deal of good. He pointed to recent Treasury receipts from customs restore and imports that the five months ending June 30 would see more than a half a billion dollars paid in as the import taxes. Instances where rates are too high or too low may general give an interpretation of the law's provisions concerning the commission's power in order that the commission may know definitely where it stands. In the meantime the in-

Mr. Marvin declared today that while undoubtedly some were dissat-

was doing the whole country a great

Treasury receipts from customs res-

If two airplanes are traveling from New York, the first at 100 miles an hour and the second at 125 miles an hour, the first, with a start of two and a half hours, will be 250 miles away when the second starts. The second plane gains at the rate of 25 miles an hour, taking it ten hours to gain the 250 miles. By that time the first plane has had twelve and a half hours of travel, so they will be 1250 miles from New York.

HUNT'S WEEKLY LETTER

MRS. HUCK NEARLY BROKE RECORD BUT NOT QUITE

BY HARRY HUNT

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Winnifred Mason Huck's defeat for the nomination to the seat in the Sixty-eighth Congress left vacant by the recent death of James R. Mann of Chicago, lost her the chance to hang up a new record in Congressional elections.

Had Mrs. Huck won, she would have achieved two elections to Congress within a period of six months, having been elected only last November to fill the unexpired term of her father.

Woman suffragists throughout the country were pulling for her election, which would have given a woman the honor of being first to be elected twice to Congress within a period of six months.

Mrs. Huck's defeat, although by a narrow margin, continues the record, unbroken to date, that no woman member in Congress has been reelected for a second term.

SPEAKING of election records, however, Senator Joseph R. Robinson of Arkansas has the unique distinction of having been a representative in Congress, a governor of his state and senator-elect, all within the space of a fortnight.

Robinson was a member of Congress when he was elected to be governor of Arkansas. He resigned from the House Jan. 14, 1913, and was inaugurated governor Jan. 16. Senator Jeff Davis suddenly died and on Jan. 28, Robinson was elected to fill the Senatorial vacancy.

ASIDE from golf, probably no pastime gives President Harding more real enjoyment than a social chat with old-time friends.

Last week in looking over his appointment card the president noted the names: "Mr. and Mrs. Tuttle, Montclair, N. J." They were down for an interview of five minutes.

"Who's Tuttle?" the president inquired of Secretary Christian, who had presented the day's schedule. "Why, Mr. Christian, what's George Tuttle, who used to be a linotype operator on the Marion Daily Star. Mrs. Tuttle used to be one of your proof-readers."

"First at the bottom of the list," Harding directed at once, "so I can give 'em all the times they want. And George—have one of the White House automobiles here and put it at their disposal for the rest of their stay in Washington."

"We'll leave it to you if that isn't treating old pals square!"

A "MODERATE" resumption of White House social activities next fall may be expected, providing Mrs. Harding's health continues its present gratifying improvement.

This improvement, according to General Charles E. Sawyer, White House physician, while gradual is steady and inspires the hope that after a few months' away from Washington, among surroundings where rest and recuperation are more stimulating, her old-time vigor and strength, intimates familiar with Mrs. Harding's desires socially say that her chief pleasure in the White House social activities is in the enjoyment given her guests.

To the extent, then, that White House functions can be continued without imposing impossible physical exacting upon her, it is believed she will desire to return to the White House, to that end, he made less strictly formal and the hostess relieved of the duty of standing for hours in a receiving line simply to shake each guest by the hand and bid him adieu. Such a commission, under the circumstances, would be fully understood and approved.

The endless round of receptions and social duties observed by Mrs. Harding during her first year in the White House, however, will not be renewed. But "moderate" social activity is expected.

P. O. CLERK HELD FOR INTERFERING WITH U. S. MAILS

(By The Associated Press)

RICHMOND, Va., Mar. 6.—Percy B. Lanier, chief clerk in the postoffice department at Petersburg and a major in the Virginia National Guard, was arrested by postoffice inspectors today on a warrant charging him with unlawful interference with mails. He was arraigned before United States Commissioner Lyman and admitted to bail in the sum of $1,000 for his appearance at a hearing set for March 27th.

Lanier is charged by the postoffice inspectors with irregularities in the handling of correspondence, relating to his trial by a court martial some time ago on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer.

When arraigned before the commissioner this morning, Lanier pleaded not guilty. Lanier was immediately suspended from his position in the Petersburg postoffice.

ANOTHER BONAR LAW MEMBER IS BEATEN AT POLLS

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Mar. 6.—Another member of the Bonar Law government, John Walter Hills, financial secretary of the treasury, was defeated for a seat in Parliament in a bye election today. The announcement caused a tremendous stir in political circles tonight.

Sir W. W. Rutherford the sitting member for the Edgell division of Liverpool, tried to provide a seat for Hills after the latter's appointment to Bonar Law's cabinet. The polling today gave J. H. Hayes, labor, 10,309 and Mr. Hills, conservative, 9,239.

Edgell has been a conservative stronghold and apparently nobody doubted that Mr. Hills would be returned. The labor candidate is said to have had not the least expectation of victory.

The successive defeat of three cabinet members in bye elections is unprecedented in parliamentary history.

PITTSBURGH, Mar. 6.—The European Textile Line company announced today that it will take all offered this month. Producers are still inclined to hold for higher prices and independents are offering premiums.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Mar. 6.—Fall River textile mills employees numbering 35,000 are demanding a 25 per cent. increase in wages. This would restore the wage scale in effect at the war time peak. Manufacturers so far have refused these demands and the matter is expected to come to a head in the near future.

U. S. Representative From Kansas, Seventh District

Many years ago a Kansas couple bought a farm, on which they paid down all their savings, giving a mortgage for the rest of the purchase price.

The land agent's commission amounted to a considerable sum and the farmer's wife objected strenuously to paying it. Crops were bad and the couple lost the place for foreclosure. Years passed. Luck changed. The pair prospered. Finally they bought another farm. This time the wife specified in advance that no commission should go to anybody. She considered it bad luck.

The lawyer who drew up the deed and mortgage acceded to her request, and the wife seemed satisfied, but when she and her husband returned home, she found under the natural seal these words: "My commission expires Sept. 15, 1885."

And it took the lawyer and her husband months to convince her that something hadn't been put over on her.

REBUTTAL FOR THE CAROLINAS

(By The Associated Press)

ATLANTA, Ga., March 6.—Carriers' rebuttal for the Carolinas was begun here today at the Southern class rate hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission with E. G. Brown, assistant freight traffic manager of the Southern Railway, testifying. A. H. Plant, of the Southern Railway, preceded Mr. Brown on the stand, testifying as to district density.

Mr. Plant undertook to establish that the density of the traffic from the Ohio River to the Mississippi Valley and the Southeast was greater than the density of traffic from the Ohio River to the Virginia cities and the Carolinas, contending the Carolinas were not entitled to lower rates on this account.

Mr. Brown in his testimony attacked the proposal of the North Carolina of this body is for a revision of rates from the Ohio River to points in the Carolinas.
